Road Show

Regulatory framework of Medical Devices on its way into the future

Safe and informed

One thing is clear: the requirements of the new EU Directive 2007/47/EC will soon come into effect. From 21 March 2010 onward, the new provisions must be applied – without any transitional periods or extensions. Yet the impact of this on the conformity assessment procedures as per Directives 90/385/EEC (active implantable medical devices) and 93/42/EEC (medical devices) is still unclear to many of the parties involved.

At our Road Show, high-caliber lecturers will inform you about the following issues:

- What changes will the new Directive involve?
- What must be implemented, and by when?
- What will be changed in TÜV SÜD audits?
- What do you have to expect in the future?

Our Road Show – the first step of being up-to-date

Our event will address the regulatory framework from a variety of perspectives. Lecturers from industry associations, competent authorities and Notified Bodies will give you all the essential information about the new Directive. They will inform you about the projects concerning the harmonization of requirements and approaches in Germany and other European countries and the further development envisaged for the future.

In addition, the Road Show offers you the opportunity of contacting lecturers face-to-face, of discussing your personal questions and of exchanging your ideas and experience with other participants.

Who is the target audience of our Road Show?

Attendance of our event will be worthwhile for all decision-makers, executives and regulatory affairs and quality managers in the medical device sector.
