Your partner for sustainability, safety and quality during airport construction

Airports place the highest demands on environmental protection, reliability and safety. As an architect or property developer you must ensure that these demands are met during construction and operation. This includes delivering impartial third-party verification that contractually agreed services have been carried out and all applicable specifications, rules and regulations and standards have been complied with. TÜV SÜD offers you competent and expert support with these tasks – from customised individual services to solving complex, cross-functional tasks.

A selection of TÜV SÜD services in airport planning, construction and operation
